Im almost embarrassed to call this a recipe because they are so simple to make and use such few ingredients. But I am telling you these are seriously good! More than good they are amazing!! I cant imagine having a party without these; my friends would probably never speak to me again if I didnt make these for them at a party. They are so sweet and yet salty with the crunch of the almond oh my goodness they are so good! Little bites of heaven these are. They should come with a warning label because they are so addicting you cant eat just one.
